SERVICE CHARTER

February 8, 2017

Foreword:

It is my pleasure to present to you this Service Charter for the Institute of National Museums of Rwanda.

This Service Charter has been prepared in tandem with the Government's reform agenda and in the spirit of being responsive to effective service delivery, transparency and accountability.

This Service Charter spells out the role of the Institute of National Museums of Rwanda, and highlights the services offered and requirements therein. It lists the service centers at which our services can be accessed and the guiding legal instruments.

The development of this charter signifies our commitment to serve our visitors with a view to creating a better understanding and enhancing our service delivery.

Amb. Robert MASOZERA

Director General - Institute of National Museums of Rwanda

The present Citizen's Charter reflects the service provided by INMR to its visitors. Therefore, it contains different services, service standards, service delivery methods and timelines as well as grievance mechanisms. This citizen's charter shows the following elements:

- Vision and Mission statements of the INMR which affirm its commitment to deliver the services with:
 - Integrity
 - Judiciousness
 - Courtesy
 - Understanding
 - Objectivity and impartiality
 - Transparency
 - Accountability
 - Promptness
 - Efficiency and effectiveness.
- Details of services delivered by the INMR:
 - Specification of services provided by INMR,
 - Clear identification of the department to be approached or where specific services can be obtained. In this way visitors will know which office to approach and save time and energy;
 - Clear statement of the time it takes to deliver each service. This provides general public with useful information and will prevent them from back and forth.
 - Setting of service quality standard by specifying service standards in terms of timeliness, accessibility, accuracy, reliability, affordability, responsiveness, fairness, sensitivity and courtesy in service delivery; On the basis of this, visitors can expect improvement.
 - Clear information about the required document and procedures to get a service from INMR. For example, the documents to be shown, the available forms to be filled in.
- Details of the „visitors“, groups/end users or People who are eligible for each service offered by INMR
- Contact information of key officers in charge of these services
- Complaint procedures or grievance redress mechanisms and how to access them.

- Feedback mechanisms for interaction with General public to continuously improve services.
- Information dissemination for availability and visibility of services. This Service Charter is a tool to increase the information available to stakeholders of INMR and set standards for transparency in public services. It is expected that through Service Charter, INMR's stakeholders will have faster access to services, setting an end to tremendous time wasting and delays in service delivery process.

Considering that its services have to be responsive to high expectations from general public, INMR commits to inform them what services are available to them and what their rights and obligations are in accessing these services.

Feedback mechanism

Realizing that INMR cannot go this route alone, it thus invites the general public to keep a hawk's eye on its employees, to be correct, realistic and comprehensive in furnishing information to better meet their expectations and root out all activities which negate service delivery improvement.

Indeed, for a better implementation of this Service Charter, INMR expects continuous interaction with general public seeking its services. For this, INMR has developed the following instruments in order to actively obtain feedback from its visitors:

- Visitors feedback form available at each department;
- Suggestion box at entrance;
- Open days/Accountability day
- Visitors panels, focus groups
- Customer surveys
- Grievance redresses mechanism or Complaints Systems in order to offer visitors an immediate channel for feedback mechanism regarding the service they received.

This Service Charter specifies also what actions will be taken when a service is not delivered, as it should. Thus, INMR encourages its visitors to give their feedback through the complaints mechanisms that are accessible, approachable and open to all. It goes without saying that the INMR takes these complaints seriously and adopts prompt and proper action in a timely manner (fashion). Ideally, a time frame for dealing with these grievances and redresses has been set. The INMR is willing to share a more systematic review of the grievances with its visitors. The key following elements will be considered during the implementation process of this Citizen's Charter:

- Establish regularly the channels through which users can log grievances. Potential channels include a website, text messaging, and customer surveys at the point of service delivery, complaints boxes, mail, and phone.
- Assign grievance redress responsibilities within the INMR and outline the internal grievance redress process for addressing each grievance subcategory.
- Devise standardized internal processes for logging grievances. Grievances can be logged either manually or, if resources allow, using a computer-based system that permits the INMR to identify “real-time” trends in the data.
- Set a clearly defined timetable for grievance redress, including time to initial acknowledgement of the complaint (if complainant is not anonymous), expected time to resolution for each stage of the investigation, and the time frame for updating beneficiaries on progress.
- Decide what measures will be taken if there is a violation of service standards.
- Establish a monitoring and evaluation system to monitor trends in grievances data.

For encouraging communication, feedback and dialogue on the implementation of its Charter, INMR commits to use new media and ICT such as sms, email, twitter, Facebook, etc..., and any combination of these technologies.

To improve continuously the service delivery, INMR is considering using the tools and techniques below in the implementation process of the present charter:

- service delivery review;
- benchmarking with best practice;
- performance management;
- training, learning and knowledge management;
- empowerment or delegation of authority; diligent complaints management; Information management.

Information and communication

Considering that information is the cornerstone of implementing and monitoring of Service Charter, this Service Charter will be delivered through various dissemination technologies and publicized widely through websites, radio, newspapers etc. to reach the public. Thus, INMR will seek to use the following channels to ensure maximum availability and visibility of its services to users and stakeholders:

- Public relations/information desk.
- Open day/Accountability day
- Publication of promotional material:
 - Leaflets,
 - Posters
 - Press releases
- Publications and creation of booklet: Production of brochures or handbills. The information contained in the brochure must be concise, clear, simple and easy to understand. The brochures should also easily be obtained;
- Print the Charter and display in front of the office and formally issue the Charter and place it on website;
- Formal announcement and publication in newspaper;
- Messages broadcasted on radio and television;
- Discussions on call-in radio and television shows;
- Internet and continuous update of the public institution web site:
 - Search engines
 - Public Websites
 - Partner Websites
 - Restricted Website
- SMS directions where to find the Charter;
- Distribution of copies to public representatives and key stakeholders;
- Newspaper articles;
- Conferences and other targeted events related to service delivery improvement.

- Trainings and orientation sessions to employees and their representatives.
- Other (mailing lists, web forums).

In brief, our clientele include researchers, students (and pupils), national and international tourists, donor agencies and international organizations, local communities and local authorities, general public.

Commitment to our stakeholders:

This charter is a commitment by the INMR to provide high quality services to all our stakeholders/clientele. We in this regard endeavor to serve you effectively, with due diligence and professionalism. We shall uphold the utmost integrity in the delivery of our services.

Expectations from stakeholders:

In order to serve you better, you can help us improve performance by:

- Treating INMR staff with courtesy and respect;
- Abiding by the regulations governing the operations at the museums;
- Suggest ways of improving our services at the INMR;
- Provide the INMR with adequate feedback on service delivery through various channels e.g. our e-mail, impression books,...
